Assassin's bullet misses—President safe

A STARTLED President Ford is pushed toward his limousine after a shot was fired at him as he left the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco Monday. The president was not injured.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 45-year-old mother, Sarah Jane Moore, fired a pistol shot at President Ford from a crowd but missed Monday before a bystander knocked her gun down and police wrestled her to the ground. The President was unharmed. Miss Moore was to be arraigned late Monday night.

One of the policemen, Inspector Gary Lemos, said the quick action by disabled ex-Marine Oliver Sipple, 33, "probably prevented a second shot from being fired."

"I was five or seven feet away from the suspect," said Police Officer Tim Hettrich. "I looked to my left and saw her raise her arm holding the gun and I saw her fire a round. Then I saw Sipple's hand reach out and push her hand down. I grabbed the cylinder of the gun, took it away."

The suspect fired the shot about 35-40 feet from the President, and the bullet slightly wounded a cab driver.

Police said the suspect, Miss Moore, well known in San Francisco radical circles, had been arrested Sunday for illegally carrying a hand gun and later was questioned by the Secret Service as a possible threat to the President, but was released Sunday night.

It was the second time in 17 days that a woman tried to assassinate the President in California.

The President was pushed to his hands and knees by a Secret Service agent when the shot was fired, then hustled into the presidential limousine which immediately sped the 15 miles to San Francisco International Airport. Ford was on the plane bound for Washington 17 minutes after the incident, but only after he insisted on shaking hands with about 20 San Francisco police officers and commented to them: "The weather is nice."

A Secret Service agent standing beside Ford when the shot was fired said he was speechless as the crowd of 3,000 outside the hotel screamed and gasped in shock.

Police said Miss Moore, a white woman dressed in men's clothing when arrested, used a .38 caliber revolver to fire the shot, and five more live rounds were still in the gun when it was grabbed by police.

Miss Moore, who claimed to be a one-time FBI informer until a year ago, was one of the first volunteers to join the million-dollar "People in Need" food ransom program established by kidnaped Patricia Hearst's parents. The suspect, also known as Area driver test station deal near?

by JOE SWICKARD

Negotiations are under way to locate a drivers' testing station at the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center in Arlington Heights, The Herald has learned.

The Illinois Secretary of State's office and representatives of Collins, Tuttle and Co., operators of the shopping center at Golf and Algonquin roads, are expected to reach an agreement to lease a storefront within a week.

Dick Bruggeman, of Collins, Tuttle and Co., Monday confirmed negotiations are under way.

"It's possible that there will be a drivers' testing station there. We are having negotiations but it's too soon to say for sure yet. We should know by Friday," Bruggeman said.

MARTY McLAUGHLIN, of the Secretary of State's office, said a site had been selected in the "Arlington Heights - Hoffman Estates area" but stopped short of naming the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center as the location.

"We're in a position to say that negotiations have begun. But we can't confirm or deny until we get a lease," McLaughlin said.

Of the possibility of an agreement being reached by the end of this week, he said, "We're hoping that's accurate. But we should know by the end of the month — that's early next week — one way or another."

Bruggeman said although "no deal is set," the center will probably write a two-year lease for the testing center with the state.

He said if agreement is reached, the center would be in operation within a month.

"APPARENTLY THEY want to get started as soon as possible. I'd say about three to four weeks," Bruggeman said.

McLaughlin said based on current thinking the new center would not be just a temporary site until a separate building is erected. He said recent federal studies indicate that a separate building is not warranted because the retesting of licensed drivers is no longer a standard operating practice.

"It's something like the seatbelt regulations that were changed. We have to be flexible, so we dropped the commitment to permanent buildings. Things could change and all of a sudden we'd have a white elephant on our hands," he said.

McLaughlin said the center would have facilities for written and behind-the-wheel testing of drivers. It would also have hearings for persons whose driving privileges have been suspended or revoked.

LICENSE PLATES will not be sold at the center, he said. Area residents have found it more convenient to purchase their new plates in banks and other outlets, he said.

The nearest testing centers are in Libertyville or at the Elston Avenue center in Chicago. Plans for a full-service center on a 40-acre site in Barrington have been set back because of opposition from local residents and businessmen.

A new driver testing station for the Northwest suburbs has been actively sought since 1970.

One 40-acre site north of Palatine was rejected reportedly because of pressure from currency exchanges that also sell license plates, and poor soil tests. That proposed center would have been a full-service facility.

Views sought on Prairie Farm

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The Arlington Heights Park Board Monday night said it would review final plans for the Prairie Farm and Garden Park with residents and civic groups before beginning construction of the project next spring.

Richard Macias, an architect from Preservation Urban Design Inc., presented final plans for the 10-acre project during a park board meeting.

Macias said he is interested in input from school districts and civic groups which would not only utilize the project for educational purposes but would possibly donate time and materials for its completion.

THE FARM, A U. S. Bicentennial project, is to be a replica of a Midwestern prairie farm during the late 1800s. The "living farm" will include authenticated farm buildings, equipment and representative livestock.

The final plans also will be reviewed with residents living near the park, located on the southeast corner of Belmont Avenue and Foster Street, who have objected to the project because they think it will generate flooding, noise and air pollution.

Thomas Thornton, park district director, said the park board will be expected in about two months to decide on a timetable and a financing arrangement for construction.

The park district levies a museum tax of 1.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation which generates about $44,000 a year to finance the project.

Thornton said the board has two financing alternatives: to slowly develop the park with the funds that come in each year, or to take out a loan to develop the project in more massive phases and pay off the loan with the annual tax revenues.

THORNTON SAID the park board also will need to decide how it could pay for the purchase of additional land adjacent to the present site to provide parking space, a farmers' market and other farm exhibits.

The park district currently is applying to the state for a Bicentennial grant to subsidize the project, he said.

Kathryn Graham, park board vice president, suggested the district encourage private donations.

The park district currently is taking bids for the planting of a hedgerow along the northern and western boundaries of the park.

Thornton said he expects major construction to begin next spring but does not know how long it will take to complete the project.

Formal report requested on Bears stadium financing

The Arlington Heights Village Board began sifting the ashes of the Chicago Bears stadium plan for Arlington Park Race Track Monday night.

At the suggestion of Trustee Alice Harms the board voted unanimously to ask its two bond consultants to report formally on details of the closed-door stadium financing talks held with representatives of Madison Square Garden Corp. and the Chicago Bears.

The board at its next meeting Oct. 6 likely will vote to accept the financial consultants' conclusion that the $33 million stadium is not financially feasible at this time. Village Pres. James T. Ryan announced Sept. 17 that Madison Square Garden and the consultants had requested an indefinite postponement of further discussions on public financing for the stadium.

BUT SOME TRUSTEES said Monday night they are not satisfied with "an indefinite postponement" and are ready to vote down public financing for the stadium.

"I'm requesting a written report of what the (financing) proposal was so it can be dealt with in an official manner," Mrs. Harms said.

Trustee David Griffin said an indefinite postponement "leaves something out there in the air," and Arlington heights residents "should not have that cost to bear one way or another."

"I dislike indefiniteness and indefinite postponements," said Trustee Richard Durava.

Reportedly, the last financing plan

EPA rates economic '76 cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new Chevrolet Chevette, the Datsun B-210 and the Subaru, all at 33 miles per gallon, are the most economical among 1976 model cars, the Environmental Protection Agency said Monday.

In general, the EPA said, fuel economy is improving with the average for all new cars at 17.6 m.p.g. — a 26.6 per cent improvement over 1975 models which averaged 15.6 m.p.g.

The least economical American car tested was a Plymouth Grand Fury Wagon with eight cylinders, automatic transmission and a 440-cubic-inch engine. It averaged 12 m.p.g. — 11 in the city and 15 on the road.

The very bottom of the list was shared by three Rolls-Royce models and the Jaguar X12, all of which averaged 11 m.p.g.

The Chevette is described by General Motors as the smallest U.S. production car. The model which came out on top, with 30 m.p.g. in the city and 39 on the highway, had a manual transmission and a four-cylinder, 98-cubic-inch engine.

The No. 2 ranking in the list, at 32 m.p.g., was shared by an 85 cubic-inch engine Chevette and a Renault with a 79-cubic-inch engine. In third

Diverse products cause problems

Warranty writing puzzles FTC

How do you write standards for warranties on such diverse products as washing machines and auto mufflers?

This is the problem facing the Federal Trade Commission in hearings this week in Chicago. The agency must come up with rules enforcing a new consumer products warranty act passed by Congress last year.

The agency's proposed rules have drawn fire from manufacturers whose products are not necessarily sold over the counter to consumers — such as replacement auto parts — and from manufacturers whose products, such as large appliances, are repaired by franchised service companies.

SUCH MANUFACTURERS objected to proposals requiring that they specify the length of time in which warranty repairs would be completed and the hours and days during which such repairs would be made.

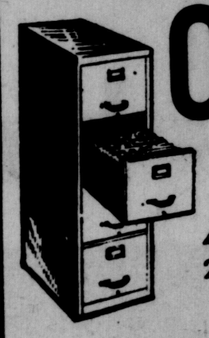

An Arlington Heights Chrysler-Plymouth dealer was named in testimony Monday by a car owner dissatisfied with repairs on his auto.

John Czarnecki, 27, Chicago, said he bought a 1974 Plymouth Duster from Mark Motors, only to discover that water leaked through an air vent.

Czarnecki said he returned to the dealer 10 times for repairs and the car still leaks. He said the company is aware of the defect but doesn't consider it important enough to repair, even though he has written letters to the Plymouth regional office and headquarters.

Rick Durgin, general manager for Mark Motors, told The Herald his records show Czarnecki returned eight times, and that the work was marked satisfactory the last time. Durgin said Czarnecki's testimony indicates the repairs were not satisfactory, and said Mark Motors will reopen the file and repair the car.

Man, 24, charged in auto fatality

Silverio Mancilla, 24, of 810 E. Shady Ln., Arlington Heights, was charged with reckless homicide Monday in connection with a fatal car accident late Sunday on Ill. Rte. 83 at the Northwest Tollway, Elk Grove Township. A Des Plaines woman, Nyela Carpenter, 39, of 740 W. Dempster St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Two other persons in the car with Mrs. Carpenter were seriously injured. Marguerite Davis, 30, Hermosa Beach, Calif., was listed in critical condition Monday at Northwest Community Hospital, and a relative, William Davis, 59, was reported in serious condition at Alexian Brothers. Mancilla also was charged with driving while intoxicated, improper lane usage and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

2 acquitted of Wickes extortion

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall Monday acquitted Ira Colitz and Nicholas Phillips of extortion charges. They were charged with extorting $50,000 from Wickes Inc. to influence zoning decisions by the Village of Wheeling for a proposed furniture warehouse at 351 W. Dundee Rd. Marshall termed the events which led to the 1971 payoff "reprehensible but not criminal."

Marty McLaughlin of the Secretary of State's office, said a site had been selected in the "Arlington Heights-Schaumburg area" but stopped short of naming the shopping center as the location. If an agreement is reached, the center would be in operation within a month, Collins' representatives said.

2 acquitted of Wickes extortion

U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall Monday acquitted Ira Colitz and Nicholas Phillips of extortion charges. They were charged with extorting $50,000 from Wickes Inc. to influence zoning decisions by the Village of Wheeling for a proposed furniture warehouse at 351 W. Dundee Rd. Marshall termed the events which led to the 1971 payoff "reprehensible but not criminal."

Drivers' test station here?

Representatives of Collins, Tuttle and Co., operators of the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center, Golf and Algonquin roads, Arlington Heights, Monday confirmed negotiations are under way with the Illinois Secretary of State's office to locate a drivers' testing station there. Marty McLaughlin of the Secretary of State's office, said a site had been selected in the "Arlington Heights-Schaumburg area" but stopped short of naming the shopping center as the location. If an agreement is reached, the center would be in operation within a month, Collins' representatives said.

Ex-Marine prevented 2nd shot at Ford

Police shove Sarah Moore to the ground.

"Sarah Jane Aalberg," has a 9-year-old son.

She was held on $1 million bail on a federal charge of attempted murder of the President. U.S. Atty. James Browning said he will ask that she be examined by a psychiatrist.

After Sipple deflected the gun, police officer Tim Hettrich, 26, immediately put his hand around the cylinder of the revolver to keep it from firing again, and Officer Joseph Currie, 29, put his hand on top of Hettrich's.

The bullet ricocheted, and, nearly spent, struck a bystander who was treated for a minor injury.

Browning said it was his feeling that no one else was involved in the incident, but said an investigation was under way to find out where Miss Moore got the pistol.

The circumstances were nearly identical to the earlier attempt on his life in Sacramento, Calif., when Manson cultist, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, pointed a gun at him from a crowd outside the California State Capitol.

The incident occurred as the President emerged from the St. Francis Hotel on Union Square. He waved to a crowd of about 3,000 waiting outside and walked to his limousine at curbside.

"I saw a puff of smoke and people started screaming around me," said UPI reporter Gordon Joseloff. "Police linked their arms together to hold back the crowd. Some of them drew their guns near where the shot apparently was fired.

"As police hustled the suspect across the street, they barely escaped being hit by the last car of the motorcade which sped away with police escort and sirens."

Charles Miles, 24, Milwaukee, Wis., said immediately after the gunshot, "the Secret Service smothered him (the President). One Secret Service man almost fell off the back of the car as it sped off."

"I was taking pictures as the President came out of the hotel," said Ronald J. Riesterer, a photographer for the Oakland Tribune. "He waved, turned around, and looked down Post Street. Then I heard the shot. The President's head twisted and his body twisted down. I don't know whether he was ducking or pushed by a Secret Service agent."

Aboard Air Force One en route to Washington, Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said an hour and a half after the incident that Ford's mood was "in a word — relaxed."

Mrs. Betty Ford, who accompanied the President on his trip to California, did not learn of the incident until she met her husband at planeside and they boarded the plane together. She also was described by Nessen as "relaxed."

Nessen said an extensive report on the prior identification of the suspect as a possible threat to the President was being prepared aboard the plane.

The President's brush with gunfire prompted congressional calls for stricter gun control laws and perhaps less presidential exposure to random crowds.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who nearly died from bullets fired by a street robber in 1973, said, "I think we've taken as much as we can along that line. I wonder if the President could try not exposing himself so much. I say it because of my deep concern."

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, Pa., expressed a similar thought.

"I would hope that the President and other candidates would be persuaded to put some limitation on random handshaking and events of that kind until we can see whether this madness is temporary. It seems enduring."

Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., sponsor in the House of the 1968 Gun Control Act, announced he would reintroduce legislation to require registration of handguns.

WOMAN IDENTIFIED as Sarah Moore is pictured in custody shortly after she reportedly tried to assassinate President Ford.

Sarah Moore worked Hearst food giveaway

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sarah Moore, the woman seized in the attempted shooting of President Ford, was a volunteer worker for the "People In Need" food giveaway program in the abortive 1974 attempt to "ransom" Patty Hearst.

A. Ludlow Kramer, coordinator of the PIN program, said Miss Moore came in on the second day as one of the first to offer assistance. Kramer said she told him that "God had sent her to help."

Kramer said she was fired near the end of the project. "She wanted to stay on and run things but we didn't think she was good enough," he said.

"When she was fired, she was very vocal about it and ranted and raved around the office for about an hour or so."

San Francisco police said they "understood" she was also a member of the United Prisoners Union whose revolutionary leader, Wilbert "Popeye" Jackson, was shot to death in gangland style earlier this year.

Thousands of Gulf Coast residents flee Eloise fury

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Two-time Hurricane Eloise aimed 110 mile per hour winds and torrential rains at the Gulf Coast Monday night while thousands of residents fled inland to escape the storm.

The National Hurricane Center said the storm intensified during the day as it crossed the Gulf waters and would likely strengthen even more before slamming ashore with eight-foot tides in the Mobile-Pensacola, Fla., area late Monday night or early Tuesday.

At dusk, gale force winds — which extended outwards 125 miles from the storm — were hitting Louisiana at the mouth of the Mississippi River with gusts over 50 miles per hour reported at Venice, La.

At least 25 persons were rescued from three oil drilling rigs as helicopters flew repeated missions to rescue boaters and oil rig crewmen in the Gulf.

Hurricane warnings were in effect from Grand Isle, La., to Apalachicola, Fla. Dr. Neil Frank, director of the hurricane center, said a large circulation of bad weather covered most of the northern Gulf and the extreme weather would hit far in advance of the center of the hurricane.

"This is not a major storm — of the Camille type," said Frank. "On a scale of 1 to 5, with 5 being a Camille, Eloise now measures a 2. But you have to respect a hurricane. You can get killed in a 2 hurricane."

The storm was traveling 10 to 15 miles per hour and had turned more toward the north-northeast, thereby increasing the threat to the Florida Panhandle area.

Frank warned the storm was going to collide with the remnants of an old cold front lingering over the Southeast which "adds up to a lot of rainfall and flash flooding in the Southeast and the strong possibility of tornadoes."

The National Weather Service issued flash flood watches with 5 to 10-inch rains expected to accompany the storm in southern and eastern Alabama, northwest Florida and much of Georgia.

A massive stream of cars headed east on Interstate 10 and state road 98 out of Pensacola, Fla., Monday night. At nearby Eglin Air Force Base, officials said planes had been moved inland to other bases.

Residents in Mobile swarmed to shopping centers, hardware stores, building supply houses and gas stations. "Mobile is taking this one seriously," said one resident. "Usually just people in the low-lying areas take any real precautions but it seems like even the inner-city dwellers are getting ready."

Authorities said Henry Passinger, 73, of Mobile, was the first death officially attributed to the storm. Passinger was apparently electricuted as he ried to hoist his boat into a metal boat house at his summer home at Point Clear, Ala.

Ford urges $100 billion resources corporation

In hopes of prodding private industry to help achieve U.S. energy independence within the decade, President Ford Monday urged creation of a $100 billion government corporation to speed development of America's natural resources.

Ford said he would ask Congress "very shortly" to create the government corporation. Congress has been reluctant to accept the energy package Ford sent to Capitol Hill in January. Ford said his proposed corporation "will have the power to take any appropriate financial action — to borrow and to lend — in order to get energy action" by private industry. But he said the "Energy Independence Authority" is designed to stimulate American industry — not supplant it.

4-power Korea conference proposed

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Monday proposed a four-power conference on Korea and informal, multilateral talks on the future of Middle East peace. His proposals, in a major policy speech to the General Assembly, followed talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Sunday night. Kissinger held out the likelihood of U.S. diplomatic relations with North Korea if "North Korea and its allies would move to improve their relations with the Republic of South Korea."

Bill would break up large oil firms

Four members of the Senate antitrust subcommittee introduced a bill Monday which would break up the country's 22 largest oil companies. Under the bill, the companies could engage in only one segment of the industry — production, transportation, refining or marketing — and pipeline companies could engage in no other oil activity. The eight largest oil companies now engage heavily in all four activities.

Kennedy: brothers would never have tolerated assassinations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Monday he was satisfied "to a moral certainty" that neither of his two brothers, President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, ever tolerated a policy of assassination.

But the Massachusetts Democrat said he had no special personal knowledge of U. S. intelligence activities during the Kennedy administration when plots allegedly were mounted against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Kennedy spoke to reporters after testifying before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, which is turning its attention to a report that a senior official in the Nixon White House ordered the assassination of columnist Jack Anderson in late 1971 or early 1972, then canceled the order.

"I didn't have any personal knowledge of the various intelligence activities during the 1960s but I am absolutely satisfied to a moral certainty that neither President Kennedy and Robert Kennedy would have tolerated a policy of assassination," Kennedy said.

He said he was convinced when all facts were known "the names of Robert Kennedy and President Kennedy will be secure and preserved."

Kennedy said he based his belief on the "value of life" which both his slain older brothers held. He urged all information about reported schemes to assassinate Castro and Trujillo be made public, saying, "Let the chips fall where they may."

The EPA said it still has to test a few more cars, including the small-engined Honda, which last year had a high fuel economy rating, and the Mazda.

It was the first time in the three years EPA has been publishing the mileage figures that a U.S.-manufactured car broke into the top five rankings.

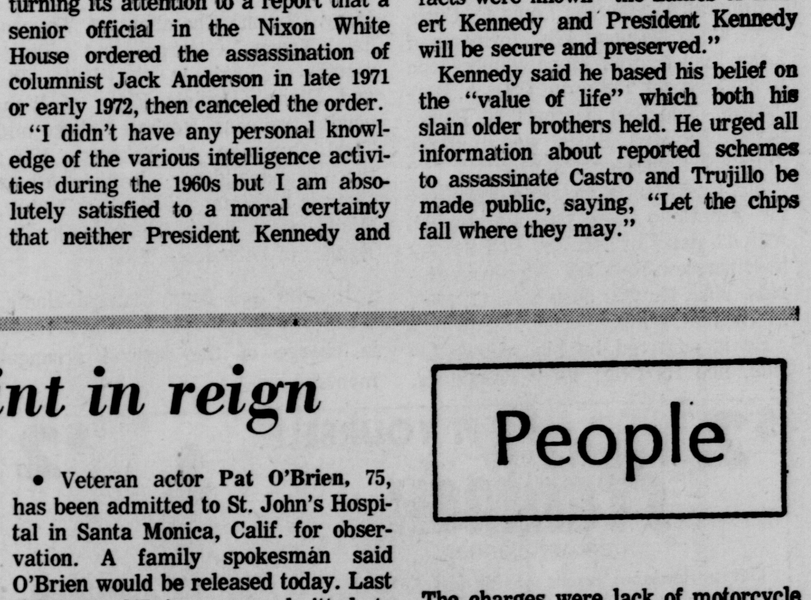

The Datsun B-210, which tied with the Chevette for the top average mileage figure, got 29 m.p.g. in town and 41 m.p.g. on the road. It had a manual transmission and a four-cylinder, 85-cubic-inch engine. The Datsun B-210 was the top fuel economy car in last year's tests also.

The Subaru which also shared the top spot with 29 m.p.g. in town and 39 m.p.g. on the highway was an 83-cubic-inch engine with four cylinders and manual transmission.

The EPA published two sets of figures — one for California where tougher exhaust control rules prevail and another for the rest of the country. The top rating in the California listings was held solely by the Datsun B-210, averaging 33 m.p.g.

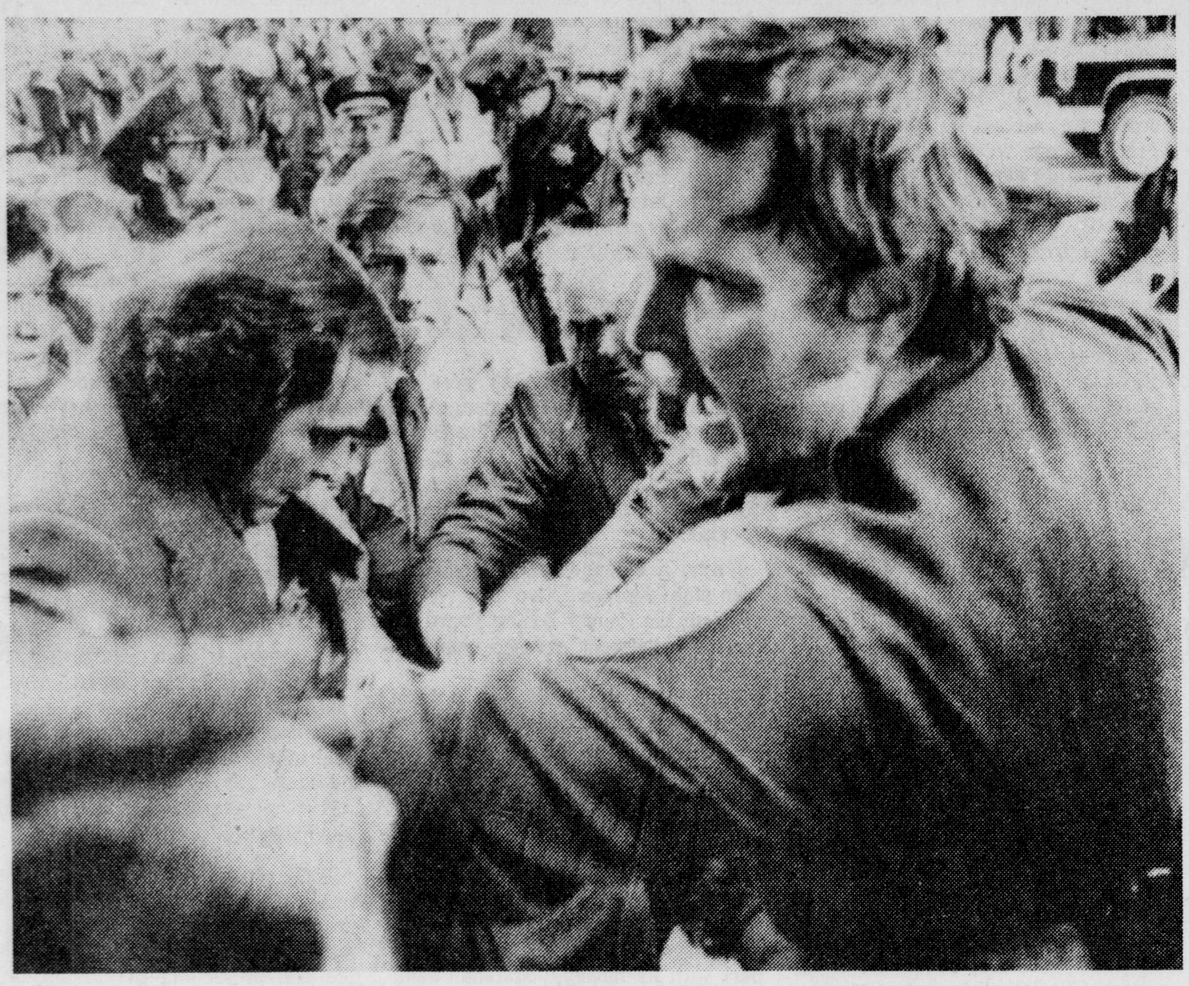

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said the figures were a "very dramatic indication" of a shift in production of both foreign and domestic cars to models which are easy on gas.

The automakers have gone more than half way since 1974 in meeting President Ford's goal of a 40 per cent improvement in fuel economy by 1980, he said.

The Datsun B-210, which tied with the Chevette for the top average mileage figure, got 29 m.p.g. in town and 41 m.p.g. on the road. It had a manual transmission and a four-cylinder, 85-cubic-inch engine. The Datsun B-210 was the top fuel economy car in last year's tests also.

The Subaru which also shared the top spot with 29 m.p.g. in town and 39 m.p.g. on the highway was an 83-cubic-inch engine with four cylinders and manual transmission.

The EPA published two sets of figures — one for California where tougher exhaust control rules prevail and another for the rest of the country. The top rating in the California listings was held solely by the Datsun B-210, averaging 33 m.p.g.

EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said the figures were a "very dramatic indication" of a shift in production of both foreign and domestic cars to models which are easy on gas.

The automakers have gone more than half way since 1974 in meeting President Ford's goal of a 40 per cent improvement in fuel economy by 1980, he said.

'Reprehensible, not criminal'

2 innocent in Wickes extortion

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Ira Colitz and Nicholas Phillips, the last two defendants in federal cases resulting from the Wheeling zoning scandal, were acquitted Monday of extortion charges.

The pair, both county zoning officials at the time of their indictment in January 1974, were found not guilty by U.S. District Court Judge Prentice Marshall after an eight-day bench trial.

They were charged with extorting $50,000 from Wickes Inc., to influence zoning decisions by the Village of Wheeling for a proposed furniture warehouse at 351 W. Dundee Rd.

Marshall called the events that led to the 1971 payoff "reprehensible but not criminal" under the laws used to indict Colitz and Phillips.

AMONG THE spectators who heard Marshall read his verdict to a crowded courtroom was County Board Pres. George W. Dunne, a business associate of Colitz.

After the verdict was announced, U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner said, "We continue to believe that the conduct not only was reprehensible but proved the defendants guilty beyond any reasonable doubt."

Skinner said the trial "certainly closes a chapter in the Wheeling investigation" and predicted the possibility of "only one or two minor actions" still to be completed by his office in Wheeling.

He said the village's corruption problems are "probably the worst of any in the Chicago area — certainly as great as any in the City of Chicago."

Five persons, including local political boss James Stavros, pleaded guilty last year to various federal charges in connection with the scandal.

STAVROS, a cousin of Phillips, is currently serving a four-year prison term in the federal penitentiary at Sandstone, Minn.

Others who pleaded guilty were former trustees Michael Valenza and William Hart, former Building Director William Bieber and Willis Clark, an excavating company executive who took part in a Stavros extortion scheme.

Colitz, a Chicago resident and former state representative who resigned from the County Zoning Board after his indictment, refused comment Monday on the verdict.

Phillips, Prospect Heights, a planner for the zoning board said "I can hardly talk," as he left the courtroom.

Marshall began the announcement of his decision with the charge against Colitz. He said Wickes officials, who testified under grants of immunity from the U.S. Attorney's office, "enlisted" Colitz' aid in obtaining the zoning in Wheeling.

"Wickes was not induced by him to part with its money," Marshall said. "Mr. Colitz was in a very real sense an agent of Wickes."

THE EVIDENCE against Phillips, who was charged with picking up the $50,000 cash at a Chicago hotel December 30, 1971, was "substantially different," Marshall said.

He said the evidence clearly showed that Phillips picked up a package at the hotel. From the remarks of a real estate executive who admits passing the money, Marshall said, "I think it is clear he knew the package contained money."

But the judge said he could not conclude beyond a reasonable doubt that Phillips "knew the purpose" of the package and the money.

Court observers attributed the failure of the federal case to the inability by prosecutors to trace the $50,000 after it allegedly reached Phillips or to prove that Phillips or Colitz could influence Wheeling zoning decisions.

Skinner called Stavros the "guiding light" of shakedown schemes in the village. It was suggested during the trial that Stavros was behind the alleged move to extort money from Wickes but no evidence was offered.

MARSHALL SAID THE "real victims" of the case were four men who had served on the Wheeling Zoning Board during the Wickes deliberation and testified at the trial as defense witnesses.

"They struck me as men of integrity . . . trying to do a difficult job . . . in a rapidly growing suburban area," said Marshall.

The four were former Zoning Board Chairman Dougla Cargill, former zoning board member Ronnie Potter and current members Neil Brandt and Edward Slepicka.

Skinner praised two of his assistants, Howard Stone and Steven Kadison, who handled the Wheeling investigation for the U.S. Attorney's office and prosecuted the Phillips-Colitz case.

Village never approved Frenchmen's cove units

An investigation by the Village of Arlington Heights into the status of Frenchmen's Cove, has found the development was never formally approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board as required by state law.

Richard Thomas, assistant village attorney, said a resolution, required by state law and village ordinance, approving the final plat of subdivision was not passed by the trustees, although a "final plat" with the necessary signatures was filed with the County Recorder.

In a report being prepared by Thomas for the board's legal committee, he said a preliminary plat was approved by the trustees in August 1973. The approval then was contingent upon some modifications in development on Dundee Road between Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove roads.

THE PLAT, FILED a year later by the developer, Thomas said, reflected some of the board-recommended changes but the required approval resolution was not submitted to the recorder with the plat.

One of the recommended changes may be responsible for the addition of two extra single-family house lots on the site, Thomas said.

The board recommended in 1973 that two streets, University Drive and Old Post Road, be closed to through traffic. Thomas said the two extra lots are at those closings.

Another difference between the preliminary plat approved by the board in 1973 and the "final plat" filed with the recorder is the addition of Daniels Court through the development, Thomas said.

THOMAS SAID the problems apparently arose because the village board did not follow the state law nor the village ordinance in requiring formal resolutions approving subdivisions. He said procedures in obtaining officials' signatures may have been lax in the past as well.

Thomas said another problem is the village's allowing developers to file the final plat of subdivision with the Recorder. He said most towns do the filing themselves and retain the original plat for their records, rather than just a copy.

Thomas said his report to the legal committee should be completed within a week. The committee asked Thomas and Trustee Alice Harms to investigate the development's status after Schwartz appeared before the village board to get approval for second and third phases of the development.

Thomas said it would be up to the committee and the full board to recommend further action or the tightening of controls on village procedures.

Formal report requested on Bears stadium financing

explored for the Bears stadium called for the village to issue $24 million in revenue bonds, pledging all of its yearly income except for real estate taxes to guarantee the bonds. A subordinate bond issue of $9 million was to be backed by Madison Square Gardens and the Bears, principally through the sale of bonds to approximately 7,000 Bears season ticket holders.

BILL MOORE, attorney for Madison Square Gardens, told the trustees Monday night that none of the parts of the financial plan were ever agreed upon by any of the parties. He also restated his intent to pursue approval of the race track's long-range development plan, which includes a request for a special-use permit to build a stadium.

"There should be no confusion as to whether we are interested in continuing with this project. We are ready to proceed with the land-use proposal right now," Moore said.

Madison Square Gardens will not withdraw the stadium proposal or consideration of public financing for the project because "we don't think it is incumbent on us to tell the village whether or not to finance the stadium," he said. "We didn't start it. We opened the door for discussion and discovery."

"We are interested in building a stadium in Arlington Heights," Moore said. "But there is no way I can say that in one, two or six months it will make (financial) sense. There's no way this board can say by fiat that it will never consider it (the stadium) again. You can't put it to bed — nail the lid on the coffin — and say it's going to go away."

The 450-acre Arlington Park Race Track property will be developed eventually, he said.

Man threatens wife, charged with assault

An Arlington Heights man was arrested late Sunday for allegedly threatening to kill his wife while placing knives on a kitchen table.

Charged with aggravated assault was William Kendig, 42, of 810 Wilshire.

Police were summoned about 10:50 p.m. to the home by a Kendig child. Police said Kendig threatened to kill his wife, Therese, and started putting knives on a table.

Kendig was being held in County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bond, pending an appearance Oct. 3 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Reader claims the cure worse than the 'disease'

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I was alarmed to see your recommendation of phenoxy herbicides — Silvex and 2, 4-D — for home use to destroy poison ivy. These are far more dangerous than poison ivy. Their use has been banned in several countries and concerned citizens are working to ban or limit their use in the United States. I hope you will consider changing your recommendations on this.—Delores Cutrera

I'm not the one to make your case with. I reported the USDA's recommendation. All I can respond now is that an official of the EPA (which has built a tough record on pesticides) disagrees with you. He considers poison ivy more dangerous.

Dear Dorothy: When my blue serge pants get shiny, I sponge them with a strong brew of black tea. — James Lowrey

You've posed a challenge. I've been holding that nothing will take the shine off once it establishes itself on men's pants.

Dear Dorothy: Every once in a while the thought crosses my mind that it would be far cheaper to use dishwashing detergent in my automatic dishwasher because it's so much cheaper. I've never seen this in your column. Isn't it worth experimenting with?— Mrs. Craig Bellows.

No way! I know people who tried it. The suds ran all over the floor and they had frantic mopping to do. The automatic product is much stronger — designed to remove food stains. The big difference, however, is in suds production. As I said, disastrous.

Dear Dorothy: Is there an easy way to fill up tiny holes in the plaster when I've moved pictures around?— Marcia Fischer.

If the wall is white, regular toothpaste will do the trick. If other than white, a bit of food coloring mixed with it ought to work.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Pasik-Johnson

Lyn Pasik's engagement to Brian Johnson, son of the Howard Johnsons of Crookston, Minn., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard F. Pasik of Mount Prospect. A June 1976 wedding is planned.

Lyn, a graduate of Prospect High School, is a senior in speech pathology at Moorhead State University in Minnesota where her fiance is also a senior. He is majoring in hotel-motel management.

Reader claims the cure worse than the 'disease'

Dear Dorothy: I was alarmed to see your recommendation of phenoxy herbicides — Silvex and 2, 4-D — for home use to destroy poison ivy. These are far more dangerous than poison ivy. Their use has been banned in several countries and concerned citizens are working to ban or limit their use in the United States. I hope you will consider changing your recommendations on this.—Delores Cutrera

I'm not the one to make your case with. I reported the USDA's recommendation. All I can respond now is that an official of the EPA (which has built a tough record on pesticides) disagrees with you. He considers poison ivy more dangerous.

Dear Dorothy: When my blue serge pants get shiny, I sponge them with a strong brew of black tea. — James Lowrey

You've posed a challenge. I've been holding that nothing will take the shine off once it establishes itself on men's pants.

Dear Dorothy: Every once in a while the thought crosses my mind that it would be far cheaper to use dishwashing detergent in my automatic dishwasher because it's so much cheaper. I've never seen this in your column. Isn't it worth experimenting with?— Mrs. Craig Bellows.

No way! I know people who tried it. The suds ran all over the floor and they had frantic mopping to do. The automatic product is much stronger — designed to remove food stains. The big difference, however, is in suds production. As I said, disastrous.

Dear Dorothy: Is there an easy way to fill up tiny holes in the plaster when I've moved pictures around?— Marcia Fischer.

If the wall is white, regular toothpaste will do the trick. If other than white, a bit of food coloring mixed with it ought to work.

Heart artery disease unpredictable

The doctor says
by Lawrence E. Lamb

Could you tell me a little about coronary insufficiency and myocardial ischemia? Should I have my personal property fixed so my family will be taken care of? I've had some severe pain in the chest, lasting only five to six minutes, but severe while it lasted.

Coronary insufficiency means insufficient blood flow through the coronary arteries to your heart muscle. The heart muscle (myocardium) is unable to get enough oxygen or eliminate the build up of carbon dioxide, and this is called ischemia, hence myocardial ischemia.

You are describing angina pectoris type pain. This usually lasts "less than half a quarter of an hour" as the classic description of the disease states.

Coronary artery disease is unpredictable. You have even cease to have these painful episodes or you may have a more severe episode in the near future. You certainly need to be under a doctor's care. You will do better if you get rid of all, and I mean all, of your excess fat under your skin, and if you have high blood pressure get treated for that.

You should get your affairs in order. That is good advice for every adult with a family regardless of health status. It is too late after a fatal accident or an unexpected fatal heart attack. In your case you have had a warning so you would be wise to heed it. Then don't expect the worst, but enjoy the peace of mind of knowing you have your affairs in order.

I need some information on the subject of eating before running. I'm a 16-year-old boy who runs approximately two to three miles every morning. I find it hard to make it running on an empty stomach.When I have an early breakfast and wait a few hours and then run I find it much easier. Could you please tell me of some foods that would pep me up and won't upset my stomach? I have no time to wait a few hours after eating to run.

Your experience is in line with experimental studies. An old experiment is to run a dog on a treadmill without feeding, then give the dog some sugar and repeat the test. the sugar increases the dog's capacity to exercise.

Your source of energy in the body comes from food. The food, whether it is carbohydrate, fat or protein, has solar energy locked in it. That is the source of all energy on planet earth. When the food is broken down by metabolism the energy is released so your body functions and you can run. You literally run on solar energy.

Almost any food that you find that doesn't bother you will provide the needed energy. You might try an 8-ounce glass of orange juice. That won't overload the stomach and will give you readily available energy. Another fruit juice of your choice would do the same thing. Fruit juices will also give you potassium. Many runners who engage in running every day gradually deplete their potassium store unless they include plenty of potassium-rich foods in the diet. This will lead to fatigue and lessened capacity to exercise.

- In 1779, the USS Bonhomme Richard, commanded by American naval hero John Paul Jones, defeated the British frigate Serapin in a battle off the coast of Scotland.
- In 1926, Jack Dempsey lost his heavyweight boxing championship to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia.
- In 1950, Congress adopted the U.S. Internal Security Act, providing for registration of Communists. It later was ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.
- In 1974, Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy said he would not seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976 and would not accept a draft.

Herald opinion

Airport bus service needed

The virtual disappearance of airport bus service from much of the Northwest suburbs typifies the kind of growing mass transportation crisis in which we find ourselves.

On the one hand, we are encouraged at every turn to battle high gasoline prices by using mass transit. If that weren't enough, the strain of battling through traffic to reach O'Hare International Airport is enough to encourage many drivers to become passengers.

But on the other hand, the system which could provide that kind of service has failed us. The only realistic alternatives, if you have to fly, are to drive to the airport or take an expensive cab.

Last week we reported that Arlington Heights has filed a complaint against Continental Air Transport Co. for suspending its bus service from the Northwest suburbs to O'Hare.

The route was suspended "at least a year ago," according to Continental vice president John McCarthy. He said that plans are being made to reinstate the service, but they are "still up in the air."

Continental still does provide irregular bus service, as well as a limousine service. But regularly scheduled bus service from the Arlington Heights area direct to O'Hare simply does not exist.

The Illinois Commerce Commission regulates such service, and Arlington Heights Pres. James T. Ryan's protest to them that Continental is not meeting its obligations is the first step towards regaining service.

But a broader problem is involved. Local residents are only going to rely on such bus service when it's frequent, on-time and readily available throughout the Northwest suburbs. Even if Continental's service is restored, it will only be effective if it provides that kind of service to encourage ridership.

Perhaps there's a role for the Regional Transportation Authority to play in beefing up such service. Presently, however, RTA officials report there are no plans for such involvement.

If the RTA is serious about effective mass transportation, then bus service between here and the airport must be a priority. Our population's reliance on O'Hare for transportation and jobs is obvious. It's time we developed a mass transportation system to parallel that reliance.

Credit safeguards should aid consumers

The Federal Reserve Board recently issued new regulations that should be a boon to credit card users and consumers who pay cash.

As of Oct. 28, credit card customers will gain a measure of bargaining power in disputes with creditors. The most powerful weapon in a consumer's arsenal — the withholding of payment — will be legalized after attempts are made to settle the disagreement. Previously, the credit customer who complained of shoddy goods and services or inaccurate billing had to pay regardless of whether his claim was satisfied.

The new board regulations require a creditor to answer written customer inquiries within 30 days and to settle the dispute in 90 days. While the complaint is being resolved, the credit customer does not pay the regular payment or finance charges. Closing a customer's account and threatening to file an adverse report on the individual's credit record are prohibited during this period. The amount of money in dispute must total at least $50, and the transaction must be within a customer's state of residence or within 100 miles across a state line.

The Fed will also allow retailers to offer a 5 per cent discount to customers who pay cash for their purchases. The voluntary discount will not be a finance charge. Any surcharge on credit card purchases, however, will be counted as a finance charge which must be disclosed to the customer.

This represents a welcome change from an earlier proposal to allow a 5 per cent credit surcharge as a hidden cost burden. U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., said the hidden surcharge could cost consumers billions of dollars each year. The regulation also eliminates the practice by some credit card issuers of prohibiting cash discounts.

letters to the editor

I am writing in response to Mr. Mooney's criticism of the Harper referendum scheduled for Sept. 27. I should like to offer a suggestion that Mr. Mooney speak with the officials of the high schools who are in charge of operating them before he closes any more schools in the Northwest suburbs.

In considering high schools as alternatives for a second college site, it is important that citizens understand that there are no plans for closing any high schools in the immediate future and officials are only beginning to discuss alternative courses of action should enrollments decline to a critical level at some time in the future. Second, it is highly improbable that a vacated high school would be available in the high growth areas in the district where community college facilities are needed. Third, I feel Mr. Mooney does not understand any of the ramifications of a "commuter college" committed to serving the technical, career and college transfer needs of a college population whose average age is 27 years. Whether Mr. Mooney likes it or not, community (commuter) colleges need large parking areas because 60 per cent to 70 per cent of the students work and must drive in order to report to their jobs on a daily basis.

Mr. Mooney is probably not aware that 45 per cent of the present population of Harper is in career-type education programs most of which require specialized facilities and equipment not found or available in old high school and elementary buildings. Renovation of old elementary and secondary facilities to college standards is and has been a major board consideration.

Finally, I can say to the citizens that state records will show that Harper College is one of the most efficiently managed campuses in the state considering the fact that it is located in one of the highest cost of living areas. Citizens of Harper should know that costs per credit hour at Harper are less than the state average which suggests that the board, faculty and administration have kept close watch on the taxpayers' dollars.

When all enrollment data and crowded conditions are studied along with the 50 per cent population growth factor anticipated in the district in the next 10 to 15 years, Mr. Mooney's solution of obtaining "a couple of acres" to build a parking lot close to a high school is not the kind of planning the Northwest suburbs deserve. I urge interested citizens to visit the college and look at a campus that is bursting at the seams to accommodate a 1980 enrollment on campus in 1975. For anyone who is knowledgeable about Harper, the small investment that Harper is requesting for the guarantee of services aimed at community needs in the future is well justified.

PTA urges Dist. 59 'yes' vote

Dear Members of Dist. 59's Board of Education:

During a regular meeting on Thursday evening, Sept. 4, we invited Mrs. Wold, Mr. Bahnmaier, Dr. Bardwell and Leah Cummins to inform us about the forthcoming referendum. We, as active parents in our schools, wanted to hear the facts and to raise questions about the tax rate increase. At the conclusion of the presentation, when our visitors had left the meeting, a general discussion about the referendum was held.

The facts which impressed us mostly and which we commend to the serious consideration of other parents and Dist. 59 taxpayers are that:

- Dist. 59 is below the average of 16 neighboring school districts in its staffing ratio — we have fewer teachers per child and fewer administrators than the average school district.
- Dist. 59, compared with the same 16 neighboring school districts, is 12th from the top in expenditures per child.
- Dist 59's tax rate is the lowest rate of those same 16 districts, and has been for many, many years.
- Dist. 59 has not had an increase in the educational tax rate since 1965.
- Dist. 59 is not getting its full share of state aid because its tax rate is below the minimum required by the state.
- Dist. 59 has been and is losing $3 million in state aid within a short period of time. Additionally, this summer the governor slashed disbursements to education; and the real estate multiplier was lowered again — all resulting in less and less income to support our educational program.

We have seen the shrinkage and have experienced cutbacks that have, of necessity, been made. As responsible parents, we do not want to see any further reduction of the educational program of our children which would bring Dist. 59 below the average for the state.

We understand that the 25 cent tax rate increase is necessary and that it will be largely, if not entirely, offset by High School Dist. 214's mandatory tax rollback (required by the state), so that our taxes for education will not increase next year.

All things considered, we understand that the need for the tax rate increase you are seeking to balance the budget is an inescapable reality of the times.

We would like, by means of this letter, to let you know that our PTO board, by unanimous vote, has resolved to support your referendum. We recommend that all parents and taxpayers of Dist. 59 give serious consideration to doing likewise.

Lauds volunteer firemen

Dear volunteer firemen of Palatine:

With the successful passage of the Sept. 9 fire referendum, the village of Palatine fire department enters a new era in its history.

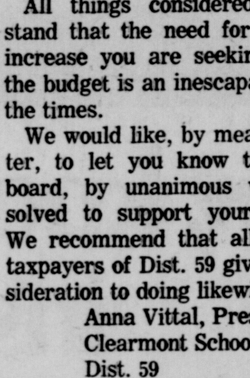

For many years the residents of our area have been protected by an unusual type of human being — the volunteer firemen.

Volunteer firemen, such as you, are the type of individuals who make this country great. As we said during the referendum, you are a "diminishing breed" but you are not forgotten. You are an example of what our country is all about. You will continue to serve the community and its fire department, although your role will not be the same as it has been.

When I entered public office in Palatine, the volunteer fire department was the backbone of the fire service. As we grow and mature as a full-time department, you will not be the backbone anymore. In my opinion, however, the Palatine volunteers will always be the "heart" of the department.

Thank you, volunteers, for your many years of dedicated public service. May you continue to serve in the same responsible way as before. It is my hope that the generations who follow will remember how well you served and duplicate your fine dedication.

CIA probe threatens out-of-season oysters

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I stopped by Benny's Shellfish Bar the other evening for a quick bowl of clam chowder. Benny was morose.

"Why are you morose, Benny?" I asked.

"They're blowing my cover," Benny replied morosely.

"They're whiching your what?"

"Senator Church and those guys who are investigating the CIA. They're lousing up my business."

Benny asked if I recalled a House hearing at which it was revealed that some of the commercial enterprises operating as CIA "fronts" had turned tidy profits.

I said I did indeed recall such testimony.

"Well, I was one of them," Benny said.

I was flabbergasted. "You, Benjamin J. Tiddleworth, doing business as Benny's Shellfish Bar, were a front for the CIA."

Benny nodded, "and have you been following the Senate hearings at which it was revealed that the CIA stockpiled enough shellfish toxin to poison 11,000 persons?"

I suddenly lost my taste for clam chowder.

"I hope you aren't going to tell me you have been supplying the CIA with a deadly substance extracted from the feeding tubes of poisonous butter clams."

Benny shook his head. "No. I've been supplying them with oysters during months that don't contain the letter 'R.'"

Everyone knows you aren't supposed to eat oysters in R-less months. It's not that there's anything wrong with the oysters. But many oyster-lovers are allergic to missing R's.

Although this aspect wasn't mentioned at the Senate hearings, the CIA apparently used oysters as a back-up for the shellfish toxin, cobra venom and other fatal potions that someone stashed away in a vault. Any James Bond fan can set the scene.

A foreign official is known to be slipping secrets to America's enemies. The CIA decides he must be eliminated but can't get close enough to hit him with a poison dart gun, known as a "non-discernible microbioinoculator."

So an undercover agent wearing a red wig breaks into his office in late August and moves the calendar ahead so that the official thinks it's September already.

The official then goes out and orders oysters, which have been supplied by Benny's Shellfish Bar.

With all the publicity about shellfish toxin, Benny figures his career as a CIA front is shot. And without that market for out-of-season oysters, he'll be lucky just to break even.

No wonder he's morose.

'Strong backbone'

This morning as I passed the new site of the Mount Prospect post office and library something occurred to me. There were no flags waving or band playing as the men who play such an important part in our lives were working in the cool of September's morning. Perhaps these men will not even be on hand when the final dedication ribbon is cut.

So here's a compliment to the men in the earthen hole, the man on the 'dozer, the man on the crane, the men with the bricks, wood or wires. They continue to be the strong backbone of America and we should be proud of them.

Everyone knows you aren't supposed to eat oysters in R-less months. It's not that there's anything wrong with the oysters. But many oyster-lovers are allergic to missing R's.

Although this aspect wasn't mentioned at the Senate hearings, the CIA apparently used oysters as a back-up for the shellfish toxin, cobra venom and other fatal potions that someone stashed away in a vault. Any James Bond fan can set the scene.

A foreign official is known to be slipping secrets to America's enemies. The CIA decides he must be eliminated but can't get close enough to hit him with a poison dart gun, known as a "non-discernible microbioinoculator."

So an undercover agent wearing a red wig breaks into his office in late August and moves the calendar ahead so that the official thinks it's September already.

The official then goes out and orders oysters, which have been supplied by Benny's Shellfish Bar.

With all the publicity about shellfish toxin, Benny figures his career as a CIA front is shot. And without that market for out-of-season oysters, he'll be lucky just to break even.

No wonder he's morose.

'Strong backbone'

This morning as I passed the new site of the Mount Prospect post office and library something occurred to me. There were no flags waving or band playing as the men who play such an important part in our lives were working in the cool of September's morning. Perhaps these men will not even be on hand when the final dedication ribbon is cut.

So here's a compliment to the men in the earthen hole, the man on the 'dozer, the man on the crane, the men with the bricks, wood or wires. They continue to be the strong backbone of America and we should be proud of them.

You can enjoy kids on a trip if...

Travel lore

by Clare Wright
TRAVEL EDITOR

Travel with your kids and enjoy it? Of course you can!

In 14 years we have diaper-bagged it around the country — trundled off to all parts of the world carrying odd bits of excess baggage — such as barely-in-one-piece "blankies" and one-eyed, sewed-up stuffed creatures — and we wouldn't have missed one single minute of those adventures — hectic and harried though they may have been at times.

However, traveling with kids isn't for everyone. So don't feel guilty if your thing is to get off as a twosome and leave the youngsters with a grandma or good substitute grandma-type sitter.

FAMILIES WHO travel together the best are usually closely knit ones who enjoy doing a lot of things together — a Sunday afternoon game session or impromptu jaunts to explore some historic little town nearby.

There are a few simple facts to keep in mind when planning a trip with the children. For one thing, plan it far enough ahead so they can have something to say about the itinerary — and what to do.

Don't rush. Try to be at your evening stopover by 4 or 5 p.m. — in time for some leisurely exploring — or a swim.

Be sure to check the policy at each motel. Many allow children under 12 to sleep free in their parents' room.

Always ask for a children's menu at every restaurant.

CHECK AIR FARES carefully. Children under two travel free if you hold them in your lap. Children from two to 11 can get discounts up to 50 per cent.

Bicentennial events will be going on all over the country — a great time to introduce your children to travel.

How about Washington, D.C.?

In the city named after America's first President, a visitor has the chance to view the famous monuments and landmarks while plying the Potomac River in a vessel owned by one of the three sightseeing boat companies operating in the area.

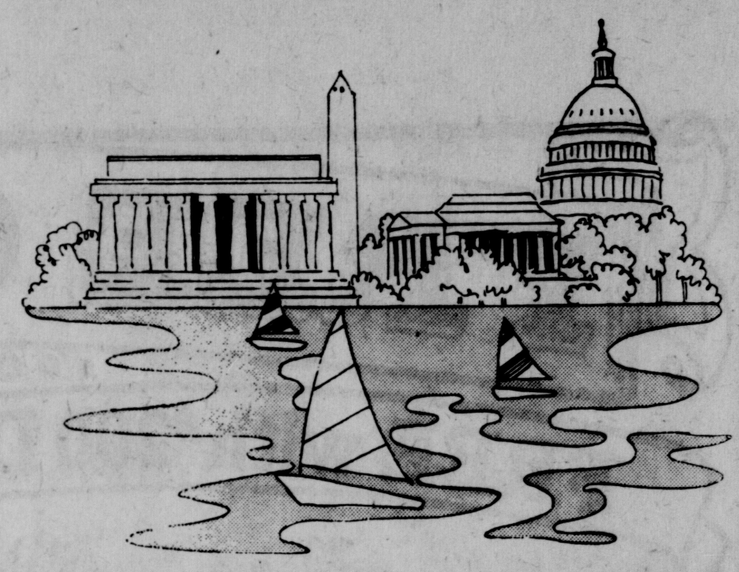

Washington by water is a trip any family group would really enjoy.

THE BOATS have two glass-enclosed decks, an open-top deck, fast-food service on board and all the modern electronic devices to insure safe, smooth sailing. The vessels depart from their berths at Pier 4 on Water Street near the Jefferson Memorial and run down to Mount Vernon, George Washington's stately home.

Potomac Boat Tours stresses the historical development of Washington from its origin as a swampy forest near the old tobacco port of Georgetown to its current status as one of the most beautiful capital cities in the world and a top family destination.

If you would like to find out more about Washington by water — or how to enjoy a vacation in Washington with the kids — write to the Washington Area Convention and Visitors Bureau, Box 1976, 1129 - 20th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Travel with the youngsters? Try it. It may be the most enjoyable vacation you've ever had. And you will want to do it again.

Cunard offers 10 cruises this winter

Winter cruises of the Queen Elizabeth 2 in the Caribbean and Mediterranean are described in a new brochure published by Cunard. The 24-page, magazine-size booklet is filled with text and pictures of the ship's interior and exterior and descriptions of the Queen's 10 Caribbean cruises and 39-day "Cradle of Civilization" Mediterranean and Black Sea cruise. The book covers sailings ranging from November 1975 through May 1976. Copies are available from northwest suburban travel agents.

VACATION IN A DUTCH CONVENT

The convent of Kerkrade, a Dutch city situated close to the German border, offers to women of all religions, single or married, the opportunity to spend a one-week relaxing holiday in the silence behind the walls. It is emphasized that no restrictions are imposed on the guests who are entirely free how to spend their time in the (recently restored) rooms of the convent. There is a guest salon which also serves as a dining room. Radio and TV are also available.

BOOKLET OFFERS TIPS

For business and leisure travelers heading for Europe and the Mediterranean area, Lufthansa German Airlines offers a handy pocket-size booklet of helpful tips for 33 countries.

Among the useful facts in "Getting Around Overseas" are basic metric equivalents for U.S. standard weights and measures, a temperature chart for centrigrade and Fahrenheit, clothing conversion sizes for men and women.

The booklet shows national and bank holidays, time differences between the U.S. and the 33 countries, bank hours, foreign currency rates and regulations. Addresses for U.S. embassies and consulates are also listed.

Souvenirs can be real works of art

Souvenirs in New Mexico can be more than just reminders of a memorable trip or visit to a part of the country where a high Indian civilization already existed when the first Spanish arrived in the seventeenth century. The best ones are often real works of art as well.

Top buys are in handmade and handtooled works reflecting the Indian culture. These include rugs, pottery, silver items, turquoise jewelry, beadwork, sand paintings, drums and baskets.

The shops and galleries surrounding the gaslit plaza in Albuquerque's restored and preserved Old Town are filled with contemporary and traditional arts and crafts from all the cultures that have combined to produce New Mexico's rich heritage.

Whatever the marketplace, here are some guidelines to good vacation-time buying in New Mexico:

• Navajo rugs. They are fairly expensive, and the purpose for which they will be used determines the price. For a saddle blanket, the weave is coarse, usually only six or seven tapestry threads to an inch. The cost for this type of blanket is much less than for one to be hung on the wall, where the number of tapestry threads can be as many as 140-145 per inch. One of the reasons for the high prices is that it might take an Indian weaver 14 months or more to make a single rug. Look for color, straightness of edges, and regularity of weave.

• Turquoise. There are as many variations as tastes, but hardness and color are the main criterion. It usually takes an expert to really judge. The thing to beware of is cheap, machine-made copies, and it's a good idea — for anything at all expensive — to deal only with a reputable trader.

• Silver work. Most of the authentic items are made by the Navajos, and again it takes an expert to tell the authentic from the phony. However, if shopping on your own, look for jewelry made with obviously fine craftsmanship.

• Pottery. The thickness, thinness and symmetry of the pot or piece are the things to look for in clay work. The good ones are handmade, and the potters seldom outline their design. Most eye-ball their decorations with uncanny precision, and use native materials for coloring. Red, yellow and brown paints, for instance, are made from manganese and iron oxides such as ocher. Black is extracted from the Rocky Mountain beeplant. When the clay is properly baked, usually over open fires at temperatures averaging 1,300 degrees, the pottery is so fine that it will ring like a bell when tapped with a fingernail.

• Kachina dolls. In selecting a good carved one, see whether it stands steadily on its base. Another sign of quality is when the ears and hands of the Kachina are carved from the same block of wood as the main portion of the figure. Dolls of lesser quality will have small parts carved separately and glued on to the body.

Bargains await honeymooners in Bermuda

HAMILTON, BERMUDA — The average young couple might never think of shopping for china and crystal on their honeymoon. But it is the thing to do in Bermuda.

Long known as a mecca for imported quality merchandise, the island's capital city, Hamilton, offers such well-known names as Wedgwood, Royal Doulton and Minton china along with Galway, Waterford and Orrefors crystal at substantial savings over U.S. prices.

Many brides use wedding present money to purchase china and crystal here and enjoy making the selection with their new husbands.

That's just one of the things that makes a Bermuda honeymoon different.

You won't find heart-shaped sunken bathtubs here, or a tunnel of love to paddle through. Still, this tiny mid-Atlantic resort is a honeymooners' paradise, as more than 40,000 couples a year discover.

Hersey golf coach praises title effort

by KEITH REINHARD
Golf Editor

It was no embarrassment to be a Mid-Suburban League golf team Saturday.

Three MSL squads participated in tournaments at two sites over the weekend, rubbing elbows and irons with some of the premier outfits in the state. At the finish line Hersey was a champion at Decatur while Palatine and Wheeling finished just off the winning place in Bensenville.

Another local golf entry, Harper, kept its dual meet slate clean with another pair of triumphs Friday while Prospect and Arlington posted non-conference wins.

Hersey's showing was easily the most impressive since Barrington — rated by many as the top team in the state —was among the 24 entries left by the wayside. Coach Al Kinzel reflected Hersey's excellent display, commenting, "The kids really turned in a fantastic performance. I've been disappointed at times with our showing up to date, but we may be on the verge now of turning things around."

Behind the stellar shooting of Ed Stubbs, the Huskies forged a 392 total at the play-five-count-five Stephen Decatur Invite. Stubbs notched a three-over-par 75 to tie for third and was solidly supported by Kevin Krahn and Mark Miesfeldt, both with 76s.

Tim Rich at 81 and Scott Warnecke at 84 rounded out Hersey scoring. Barrington finished four strokes off the winning tempo at 396 while Decatur Eisenhower (402), Edwardsville (403) and Pekin (410) rounded out the top five.

At the 19-team Fenton Invite Pirate Mike Sievers blazed the way with a 74 to tie for medalist honors with Dave March of Glenbard East. The Rams at 307 came away with top team laurels in the play-four-count-four tourney, but Palatine slipped into second place with 314.

Wheeling, meanwhile, snared a fifth place finish as Dave Rice clicked off pars in two overtime holes to capture third place medalist honors. Rice and teammate Dave Schultz along with Palatine's Nick Zambole had all finished among a six-way tie for third at 75.

Also contributing to the fine Pirate showing were Dave Lyons (81) and Mike Carroll (84). Bill Hughes (83) and Paul Adams (90) rounded out Wildcat scoring.

Addison Trail (315), East Leyden (315) and Lincolnway (320) rounded out the top five at the White Pines South-hosted meet.

Harper upped its overall mark to 5-0 by trimming DuPage and hosting Elgin at Spartan Meadows golf club. The Hawks shot a 310 to 316 for DuPage and 325 for Elgin.

Kevin Eakin, Dave Nelson and Steve Loughman all spearheaded the Harper cause with 77s. Jim Arden and Mike Fitton added 79s.

Arlington nipped Niles East 164-166, and Prospect stopped St. Viator 156-163 in other Friday contests. It was the sixth win in a row for the Knights and they were headed up this time by Pete Lund at 38 and Mike Dee at 39.

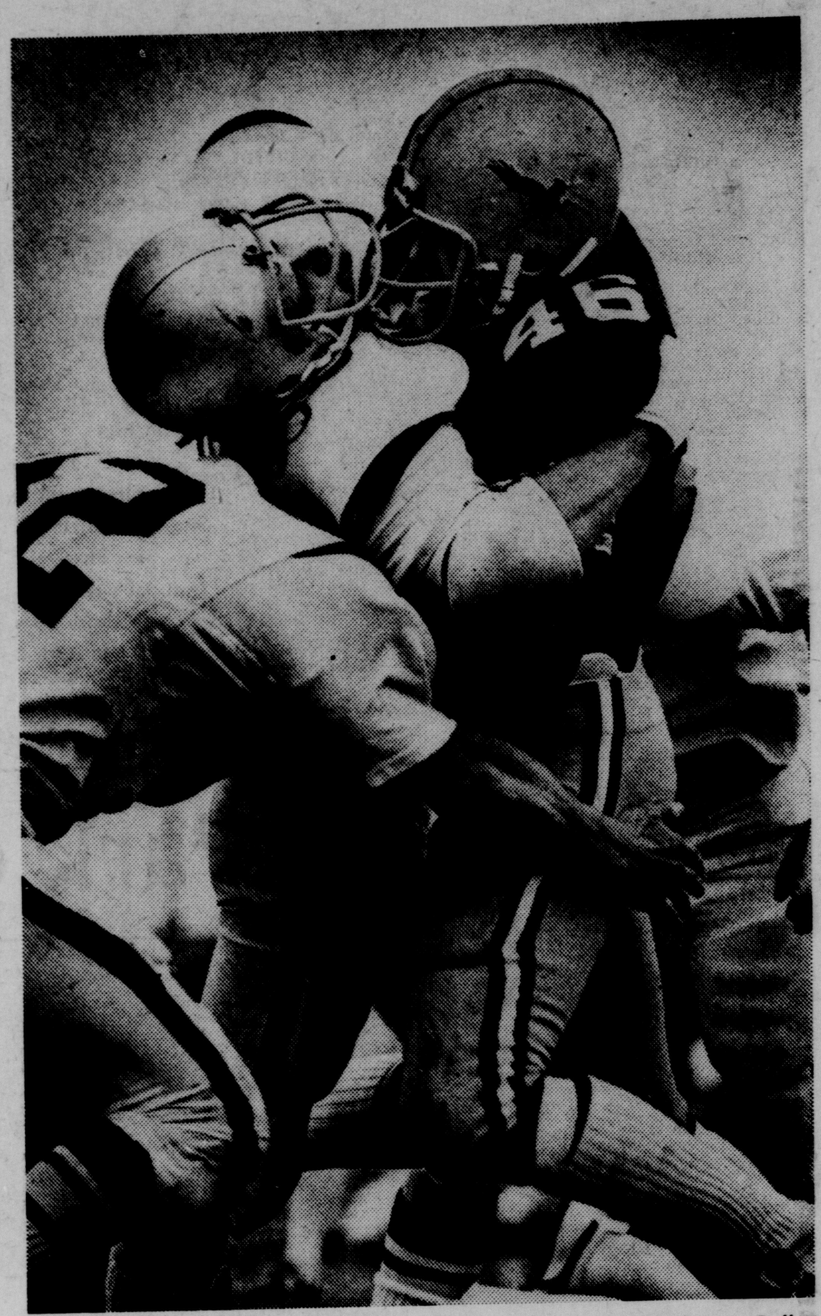

The Cardinals had a 40 from Bob Fox, 41s from Tony Hahn and Scott Vrablik and a 42 from Jeff Gutowski in earning their fourth win in nine tries overall.

AN UNIDENTIFIED Illinois Valley defender gets pinned between Charles Spicer (82) and Harper fullback Tom Bullen. Bullen plowed for 45 yards as the Hawks won their first of the year.

NFL PLAYERS ASSOCIATION president Kermit Alexander announces that players and owners hope to "make some progress toward a settlement" of their contract dispute. Talks took place Monday in Chicago and will continue today.

Raiders win 31-21

Oakland's Harold Hart returned a fourth-quarter kickoff for a 101-yard touchdown to open up a 17-point lead and the Raiders held on to defeat the Dolphins, 31-21, in the season's first NFL Monday night game in Miami.

Oakland intercepted four Bob Griese passes, including one each by Neal Colzie and Jack Tatum in the final two minutes.

Ten-year veteran Pete Banaszak dived for two touchdowns and George Blanda added a 25-yard field goal to give Oakland a commanding 17-7 halftime lead over the Dolphins.

Banaszak, a former U. of Miami running back, crashed over from the two to cap a 38-yard, 10-play drive midway through the first quarter and added another from a yard out at the end of a 61-yard march in the second quarter.

Blanda booted his field goal when another promising Oakland drive was thwarted on the Miami seven.

Oakland controlled the line of scrimmage both offensively and defensively to take a commanding 17-0 lead before the Dolphins' Mercury Morris romped four yards around right end for the Dolphins' touchdown with 1:48 to go in the half.

Morris' touchdown climaxed a nine-play drive that started on the Miami 26. The big gainer was a 32-yard pass from Bob Griese to Howard Twilley.

Ken Stabler engineered the Raider drives, hitting passes in key situations under the Miami's zone defense.

No settlement yet in NFL

National Football League players and management representatives broke into separate caucuses in Chicago Monday night after a four-hour joint meeting failed to produce a settlement in their negotiations for a new player contract.

"All that has happened is some clarifications of some points," players association president Kermit Alexander said. "We're going to meet and see if we can't get some further clarifications and make some progress toward a settlement Tuesday."

Ed Garvey, executive director of the players group, said there obviously were parts of the new management proposal which would be satisfactory to the players, but that they hoped to discuss the major stumbling blocks in the separate meeting of the players.

Federal conciliator W. J. Usery called both groups to return to a joint conference at 10 a.m. Tuesday and said, "What I want is a settlement."

Pirates clinch East title

The Pittsburgh Pirates, with Richie Zisk and Dave Parker each knocking in four runs and Willie Stargell scoring four times, clinched their fifth National League East title in six years Monday night with a 11-3 victory over the second-place Philadelphia Phillies in Pittsburgh.

The only year in the past six the Pirates did not win the divisional crown was 1973.

The Pirates put the game away with two big innings — scoring three runs in the fifth and five runs in the eighth.

Black Hawks fined for fighting

National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell announced Monday in Montreal fines totaling $9,050 against players of four NHL teams for bench-clearing incidents at two exhibition games Sunday.

The fines included $4,200 resulting from the melee in Sunday's game at the Chicago Stadium between the Black Hawks and the Boston Bruins. Fines of $100 were assessed for each of 31 players who left the benches for fights on the ice. There were nine misconduct penalties in that match and 214 minutes worth of penalties altogether.

The game between the Philadelphia Flyers and Montreal Canadiens in Philadelphia produced 332 minutes in penalties, well above the record of 256 for a regular season game set last Dec. 14 between St. Louis and the New York Rangers.

Dave Schultz of the Flyers received three minors, three majors, and three game misconducts in the game Sunday.

Campbell said he is reviewing both incidents and there is a possibility further disciplinary action will be taken.

Girls' swim season opens

by MIKE KLEIN

The Mid-Suburban Conference women's swimming schedule begins this afternoon with head coach Paul Reeff of defending champion Prospect maintaining, "Yeah, we're the team to beat. Nobody can beat us."

Reeff's Knights soared to the league's first championship last spring with 302 tournament points. Only Arlington, at 257 for coach Jo Anna Murdock, seriously threatened the victors.

Prospect opens with Wheeling at Kopp pool. Other meets at 4:30 p.m. are Buffalo Grove at Forest View (Olympic pool), Elk Grove at Rolling Meadows (Buffalo Grove Aquadome) and Arlington at Hersey in the Wheeling pool.

Conference champions return in all events and Prospect has five of them. Terrie Wilken defends titles in 500 and 50 freestyle while Patti Larsen does the same in 200 individual medley and 100 breaststroke.

Larsen, Terrie Wilken, Pam Wilken and Jema Allen currently are Prospect's 200 medley relay team, also conference champs last year.

Arlington returns conference titlists Sue Cripe in 100 and 200 freestyle plus diver Kelly Holland and 100 backstroke specialist Wendy Meyers.

Cripe, Laura Jolly and Jill Nason comprise returnees to the Cards' defending champion 400 freestyle relay team.

Shelley Bird, champion last spring in 100 butterfly returns for Elk Grove.

Breitbeil passes for 59 yards in NU jayvee game

Freshman quarterback Steve Breitbeil of Rolling Meadows completed four-of-eight passes for 59 yards during a 13-0 loss by the Northwestern University junior-varsity football team against Purdue on Sunday afternoon.

It was the first JV contest for Northwestern which hosts Illinois at 1:30 p.m., next Sunday, in Dyche Stadium.

Buffone: Bears could be great big catastrophe

by MIKE KLEIN

In other years, mostly when the coach was a Dooley, the linebacker was Mr. Butkus. He'd sit astride a bar stool downtown at Hef's Bunny Hutch and offer a few realities about the Chicago Bears.

Mostly, it was funny. Because the Bears were funny, too, in their own utterly dismal way.

But old Mr. Butkus has disappeared, now that his knees are oatmeal. So often overlooked Doug Buffone took center stage Monday afternoon before a small public at The MC-2 Restaurant in Rolling Meadows.

And linebacker Doug (Can he already be a 10-year veteran? . . . My gosh!) told the few gathered businessmen what everyone knew already. Especially those who watched the Bears' 35-7 defeat to Baltimore on Sunday afternoon, a most embarrassing debut for new coach Jack Pardee.

"If we don't improve," Buffone said midway doing an honest speech, "if we don't get ourselves together you're going to see one of the great catastrophes of professional football."

Buffone went on to say the Bears aren't playing any lollipops this season. There will be Minnesota twice plus Miami, Los Angeles, St. Louis and the defending NFL champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

That schedule, said Buffone, won't allow the brand of football the Bears displayed Sunday in Soldier Field before a semi-packed house of boo birds.

Of course, Buffone fielded the usual inquiries about quarterback Bobby Douglass. (That doesn't mean Gary Huff got overwhelming support, because he didn't.)

Buffone said Douglass plays under pressure, then allowed that everyone else does, too. And Buffone said that every guy on that offense sticks up for Bobby, especially when Soldier Fieldites are screaming for his scalp.

That, said the Bears' great veteran linebacker, is because everyone still thinks Bobby can be something special.

"If he ever does connect, if it ever does happen," said Buffone, "he'll be unbelievable because his desire is way beyond anyone else on that offensive team."

Buffone allowed that against Baltimore, "Defensively, we stunk up the place. Offensively, we did the same."

And he recognized that people are a bit tired of bad Chicago football. "I keep telling people to have patience but like I said, it's 10 years since I've been here," Buffone said.

"How much longer can I hold out? But that's all I can say, have patience."

Oh yes, they also announced next Monday's planned guest speaker. It's Bobby Douglass. He's been waiting, too.

Girls' swim season opens

by MIKE KLEIN

The Mid-Suburban Conference women's swimming schedule begins this afternoon with head coach Paul Reeff of defending champion Prospect maintaining, "Yeah, we're the team to beat. Nobody can beat us."

Reeff's Knights soared to the league's first championship last spring with 302 tournament points. Only Arlington, at 257 for coach Jo Anna Murdock, seriously threatened the victors.

Prospect opens with Wheeling at Kopp pool. Other meets at 4:30 p.m. are Buffalo Grove at Forest View (Olympic pool), Elk Grove at Rolling Meadows (Buffalo Grove Aquadome) and Arlington at Hersey in the Wheeling pool.

Conference champions return in all events and Prospect has five of them. Terrie Wilken defends titles in 500 and 50 freestyle while Patti Larsen does the same in 200 individual medley and 100 breaststroke.

Larsen, Terrie Wilken, Pam Wilken and Jema Allen currently are Prospect's 200 medley relay team, also conference champs last year.

Arlington returns conference titlists Sue Cripe in 100 and 200 freestyle plus diver Kelly Holland and 100 backstroke specialist Wendy Meyers.

Cripe, Laura Jolly and Jill Nason comprise returnees to the Cards' defending champion 400 freestyle relay team.

Shelley Bird, champion last spring in 100 butterfly returns for Elk Grove.

Breitbeil passes for 59 yards in NU jayvee game

Freshman quarterback Steve Breitbeil of Rolling Meadows completed four-of-eight passes for 59 yards during a 13-0 loss by the Northwestern University junior-varsity football team against Purdue on Sunday afternoon.

It was the first JV contest for Northwestern which hosts Illinois at 1:30 p.m., next Sunday, in Dyche Stadium.

Buffone: Bears could be great big catastrophe

by MIKE KLEIN

In other years, mostly when the coach was a Dooley, the linebacker was Mr. Butkus. He'd sit astride a bar stool downtown at Hef's Bunny Hutch and offer a few realities about the Chicago Bears.

Mostly, it was funny. Because the Bears were funny, too, in their own utterly dismal way.

But old Mr. Butkus has disappeared, now that his knees are oatmeal. So often overlooked Doug Buffone took center stage Monday afternoon before a small public at The MC-2 Restaurant in Rolling Meadows.

And linebacker Doug (Can he already be a 10-year veteran? . . . My gosh!) told the few gathered businessmen what everyone knew already. Especially those who watched the Bears' 35-7 defeat to Baltimore on Sunday afternoon, a most embarrassing debut for new coach Jack Pardee.

"If we don't improve," Buffone said midway doing an honest speech, "if we don't get ourselves together you're going to see one of the great catastrophes of professional football."

Buffone went on to say the Bears aren't playing any lollipops this season. There will be Minnesota twice plus Miami, Los Angeles, St. Louis and the defending NFL champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

That schedule, said Buffone, won't allow the brand of football the Bears displayed Sunday in Soldier Field before a semi-packed house of boo birds.

Of course, Buffone fielded the usual inquiries about quarterback Bobby Douglass. (That doesn't mean Gary Huff got overwhelming support, because he didn't.)

Buffone said Douglass plays under pressure, then allowed that everyone else does, too. And Buffone said that every guy on that offense sticks up for Bobby, especially when Soldier Fieldites are screaming for his scalp.

That, said the Bears' great veteran linebacker, is because everyone still thinks Bobby can be something special.

"If he ever does connect, if it ever does happen," said Buffone, "he'll be unbelievable because his desire is way beyond anyone else on that offensive team."

Buffone allowed that against Baltimore, "Defensively, we stunk up the place. Offensively, we did the same."

And he recognized that people are a bit tired of bad Chicago football. "I keep telling people to have patience but like I said, it's 10 years since I've been here," Buffone said.

"How much longer can I hold out? But that's all I can say, have patience."

Oh yes, they also announced next Monday's planned guest speaker. It's Bobby Douglass. He's been waiting, too.

Linnaeus sorted plants, animals

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Chuckie Hunter, 13, of Hemingway, S. C., for his question:
WHO CLASSIFIED THE PLANTS AND ANIMALS?

Beans and bears have different common names in different languages. So do all the other familiar and unfamiliar plants and animals. When international experts wish to compare notes, this sort of thing could cause complete confusion. Fortunately the problem was solved about two centuries ago. Every plant and animal has its own worldwide scientific name and classification.

This worldwide system was invented by Karl von Linne, born in Sweden in 1707. Young Karl was a nature lover, always interested in collecting plants and making notes with diagrams. As a student, he went to medical school. There he became interested in animal life, though he continued his studies of botany.

With such a broad range of studies, he realized the need to sort, classify and name the different plants. He also saw the need for scientific names that could be used by experts of all languages. During his adult years, he taught and lectured at many major schools and colleges throughout Europe. Meantime he worked on his plan to classify the plant world.

In those days, science material was written in Latin, a dead language known to scholars of all countries. It also was usual for a science writer to Latinize his name. So Karl von Linne became Carolus Linnaeus. And nowadays, because he turned out to be one of history's great scientists, we refer to him as Linnaeus.

During his busy lifetime of 71 years, Linnaeus became famous and his system of plant classification was adopted by scholars of all nations. His system sorted similar plants into large groups called phyla. Each phylum was sorted into smaller and smaller groups of more closely related plants. In his last publication he used the same system to classify the animal kingdom.

Many more plants and animals have been discovered since the days of Linnaeus. But his system of classification needed few changes to make room for them all. Every plant and animal has its own scientific name, giving its species and genus group. A genus belongs in a family, in a larger order and a still larger class. And a group of classes make up a whopping group called a phylum.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Chris Hammersley, 10, of Wichita, Kan., for his question:

WHAT IS A MASTODON?

The mastodon lived on earth for millions of years, but about 8,000 years ago he became extinct. He looked like an elephant and belonged to the family of prehistoric elephant ancestors. He was chunkier and not quite as tall as a modern elephant and wore a coat of shaggy hair. In the remote past there were about 100 different mastodon species. Some of the early types had tusks in both their upper and lower jaws. Later types lost the pair of tusks in the lower jaw.

The long story of the mastodons is revealed by their fossilized bones. There were early types in North Africa about 35 million years ago. From there they seem to have spread to Europe and Asia. About 12 million years ago, mastodons made themselves at home in North America — and here they lived through the long dreary ice ages.

Rubber chicken, twilight zone make play a 'blast'

Mid-week review

by GENIE CAMPBELL
(A review)

What do one rubber chicken, a small brass Aladdin's lamp, a loaded gun and a magician's string of scarves have in common? Jack Sharkey's new play, "Who's on First?" They are the primary props and the comedy itself is just as madcap, ridiculous and frantic as they might suggest.

"Who's on First?" opened Friday at Country Club Comedy Theatre in Mount Prospect. And it constitutes a world premiere in every sense of the term, for the Elk Grove Village playwright created the play specifically for the quartet of Kent Hageman, Michael Jon Sims, Maggie Schmidt and Cindy Flodin, the same cast who appeared together this spring in a successful production of "Accommodations."

And certainly the high calibre of ensemble acting compliments Sharkey's farce that features the four playing out one scene over and over again, only each time with a different set of extenuating circumstances.

IT ALL BEGINS when Kent Hageman as Don, a jealous husband, arrives at Maggie Schmidt's swank apartment for a party. Depressed because he thinks his wife, Cindy Flodin, is having an affair, Don takes out a gun and shoots the man he believes to be her lover, played by Michael Jon Sims. But that's not really the way it is at all — or is it? The audience is given a variety of interpretations.

The scene is continually recast and played out as if the four were caught in a twilight zone.

But enough about the script. It is almost impossible to adequately describe this nightmarish farce for it is not only extremely different, but a unique approach for Sharkey whose prior eight plays have been primarily light comedies interlaced with plenty of mistaken identities.

For even more variety Sharkey really twists some of the scenes. Keeping the same idea, he has the cast play one Japanese style and another down-on-the-farm hillbilly fashion. Yet the same props, particularly that rubber chicken, are always somehow worked in just to remind the audience — "Hey, didn't I see that before?"

HOWEVER, THOSE two particular scenes would be even more effective if the chic Madison Avenue apartment decor could be camouflaged. Even a farce has to be somewhat believable.

That is one minor criticism in a show that offers an unusual evening of laughs and wears out the theatergoers as well as the actors.

Directed by Tom Ventriss, "Who's on First?" plays through Oct. 26. It is the first in a new season that Ventriss promised would offer fresh, original entertainment. He hit it this time right on the nose.

But watch yourself. When that gun goes off — and it does quite a bit in this show — cover your ears. That blast, like the play itself, is mighty hearty.

Concert to benefit day-care center

The Northwest Choral Society is presenting a benefit concert for the Northwest Suburban Day Care Center Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Christ Church, Cora and Henry streets, Des Plaines.

Commemorating its fifth year, the day-care center, located in First Presbyterian Church of Des Plaines, serves Northwest suburban area families with low and moderate incomes. Approximately 30 children are enrolled.

The program Sunday will include an audience sing-along of patriotic and old-time songs. The High School Handbell Choir of Christ Church will make its first appearance of the new season. Director of the choral society is James C. Thunder Jr., also music director at Christ Church.

Ticket information is available through 299-5103 or 824-4005.

South hand draws sufficient trumps

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

South was really interested in a grand slam after his partner's opening heart bid and spade raise, but he gave up that idea when North bid three hearts over three diamonds. He wanted less heart strength and more spade strength in dummy.

West opened the seven of clubs and dummy's 10 won the first trick. A trump to the ace collected West's nine spot and South paused a long time to consider his next play. If that nine of spades was a singleton the only winning play would be to lead a low spade to dummy's 10.

South decided against this play because if trumps did break 4-1 there would be a lot of problems in the play in any event. In fact against a 3-2 break there would be potential trouble if the winner of the second trump led the suit back.

After all this consideration, South played his king of spades. When both opponents followed he claimed the balance explaining that he would never lead a trump and that whoever held the queen could take a trick with it when he chose.

5 years.

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature.

Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds mature in 5 years.

Rubber chicken, twilight zone make play a 'blast'

by GENIE CAMPBELL
(A review)

Mid-week review

What do one rubber chicken, a small brass Aladdin's lamp, a loaded gun and a magician's string of scarves have in common? Jack Sharkey's new play, "Who's on First?" They are the primary props and the comedy itself is just as madcap, ridiculous and frantic as they might suggest.

"Who's on First?" opened Friday at Country Club Comedy Theatre in Mount Prospect. And it constitutes a world premiere in every sense of the term, for the Elk Grove Village playwright created the play specifically for the quartet of Kent Hageman, Michael Jon Sims, Maggie Schmidt and Cindy Flodin, the same cast who appeared together this spring in a successful production of "Accommodations."

And certainly the high calibre of ensemble acting compliments Sharkey's farce that features the four playing out one scene over and over again, only each time with a different set of extenuating circumstances.

IT ALL BEGINS when Kent Hageman as Don, a jealous husband, arrives at Maggie Schmidt's swank apartment for a party. Depressed because he thinks his wife, Cindy Flodin, is having an affair, Don takes out a gun and shoots the man he believes to be her lover, played by Michael Jon Sims. But that's not really the way it is at all — or is it? The audience is given a variety of interpretations.

The scene is continually recast and played out as if the four were caught in a twilight zone.

But enough about the script. It is almost impossible to adequately describe this nightmarish farce for it is not only extremely different, but a unique approach for Sharkey whose prior eight plays have been primarily light comedies interlaced with plenty of mistaken identities.

For even more variety Sharkey really twists some of the scenes. Keeping the same idea, he has the cast play one Japanese style and another down-on-the-farm hillbilly fashion. Yet the same props, particularly that rubber chicken, are always somehow worked in just to remind the audience — "Hey, didn't I see that before?"

HOWEVER, THOSE two particular scenes would be even more effective if the chic Madison Avenue apartment decor could be camouflaged. Even a farce has to be somewhat believable.

That is one minor criticism in a show that offers an unusual evening of laughs and wears out the theatergoers as well as the actors.

Directed by Tom Ventriss, "Who's on First?" plays through Oct. 26. It is the first in a new season that Ventriss promised would offer fresh, original entertainment. He hit it this time right on the nose.

But watch yourself. When that gun goes off — and it does quite a bit in this show — cover your ears. That blast, like the play itself, is mighty hearty.

Concert to benefit day-care center

The Northwest Choral Society is presenting a benefit concert for the Northwest Suburban Day Care Center Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at Christ Church, Cora and Henry streets, Des Plaines.

Commemorating its fifth year, the day-care center, located in First Presbyterian Church of Des Plaines, serves Northwest suburban area families with low and moderate incomes. Approximately 30 children are enrolled.

The program Sunday will include an audience sing-along of patriotic and old-time songs. The High School Handbell Choir of Christ Church will make its first appearance of the new season. Director of the choral society is James C. Thunder Jr., also music director at Christ Church.

Ticket information is available through 299-5103 or 824-4005.

South hand draws sufficient trumps

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

South was really interested in a grand slam after his partner's opening heart bid and spade raise, but he gave up that idea when North bid three hearts over three diamonds. He wanted less heart strength and more spade strength in dummy.

West opened the seven of clubs and dummy's 10 won the first trick. A trump to the ace collected West's nine spot and South paused a long time to consider his next play. If that nine of spades was a singleton the only winning play would be to lead a low spade to dummy's 10.

South decided against this play because if trumps did break 4-1 there would be a lot of problems in the play in any event. In fact against a 3-2 break there would be potential trouble if the winner of the second trump led the suit back.

After all this consideration, South played his king of spades. When both opponents followed he claimed the balance explaining that he would never lead a trump and that whoever held the queen could take a trick with it when he chose.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds mature in 5 years.
